

Senior Web Developer (m/f)

Skoobe is currently looking for a talented and experienced web developer with a strong background in web and browser technologies, including HTML, CSS, JavaScript, user experience, cross-browser compatibility and high-performance/low-latency web applications for our office in Munich, Germany.

Tasks

- › Work as part of a project team and be responsible for all web development efforts
- › Keep focus on design consistency and user experience
- › Write and maintain tests to improve software quality
- › Automate recurring tasks, help us simplify operations
- › Design and implement robust and scalable web applications

We're hiring someone who is smart and adaptive, able to learn new technologies and get things done.

You will be working on different web applications for internal and external use, including our web site at skoobe.de, our REST APIs for distributing ebooks and storing user data, our highly automated infrastructure running on AWS and/or our core content management application.

Requirements

The ideal candidate will have the following:

- › Legal right to work in Germany
- › 3+ years experience designing and writing web applications
- › Extensive development experience in Python. Bonus if you have worked in other languages like C, Java or have used Tornado or SQLAlchemy, AWS, MySQL and/or NoSQL datastores
- › Extensive knowledge with web and browser technologies
- › Good sense for design, usability and user experience
- › BS/MS in Computer Science or equivalent experience
- › Comfortable in an English-speaking work environment

About us

At Skoobe we want to change how people read books. We are building the world's first trade ebook subscription service. Our mission is about building great technology that is easily accessible.

Two examples:

1. we are the lowest-latency ebook streaming service around
2. we currently have the best rated ebook reading app in the app store.

We maintain a good work/life balance without late shifts and a strict free-weekends policy. We also like to hang out in one of the many bars around our office, go skiing/snowboarding in the alps or organize outdoor team events.

Our quiet and open floor plan office is located in the center of Munich (close to Gärtnerplatz). Munich is a great place to live, located in the center of Europe and surrounded by beautiful nature (it takes you less than an hour to the next skiing resort).

What's included?

- › Competitive salary
- › Full health/dental insurance plan in Germany's high-class public health system
- › 25 vacation days plus 12 Bavarian holidays (no other German state has more)
- › Paid work-related training (i.e., conferences, workshops, etc.)
- › Relocation assistance
- › German-language class for international applicants

Become a part of our success!

If you have a passion for books as well as digital devices and want to become part of a young start-up in a traditional field, we looking forward to receiving your application! You can either email or post your application via the following addresses
