

Android Developer (m/f)

Skoobe is currently looking for a talented software engineer with a true passion for building great software in a small engineering-driven team. Your focus will be the development of our Android mobile application in our office in Munich, Germany.

Key responsibilities:

- › Work on our best-rated mobile applications as part of our development team
- › Ensure a high quality up-to-date user experience for our customers by doing fast iterations and incorporating learnings and feedback quickly
- › Keep an eye on current developments in the mobile ecosystems
- › Work closely together with our user interface designer, product manager and your backend colleagues

Skills & Requirements:

- › 3+ years experience in software development
- › Experience in Android mobile app development in Java
- › Solid knowledge of C/C++. Bonus if you have worked in other languages like Swift, Python or Ruby
- › Knowledge on relational databases, preferably MySQL.
- › BS/MS in Computer Science or equivalent experience
- › You are smart and adaptive, able to learn new technologies and get things done
- › Comfortable in an English-speaking work environment

About us:

Skoobe is a Munich based start-up, financed by the publishing groups Georg von Holtzbrinck, Random House and arvato. We spark passion for reading with the best app to discover books, an excellent reading experience on different devices, a fair price and an outstanding service. We focus on quality, speed and the needs of our customers.

Skoobe offers fast realisation of your ideas, space for open discussions, a goal-oriented work style and a supportive environment with flat hierarchies. You help to bring a global product forward and get free access to more books than you could ever read in your life. You get a 27" iMac, or any other device you need to get your work done and we offer work-related trainings for your professional development. Our quiet and nicely collaborative open-plan office is located in the city center of Munich.

What's included?

- › Competitive salary
- › Full health/dental insurance plan
- › 25 vacation days plus 12 Bavarian holidays
- › Relocation assistance
- › German language class for international applicants

Become part of our success!

If you have a passion for books as well as digital devices and want to become part of a young start-up in a traditional field, we are looking forward to receiving your application! You can either email or post your application via the following addresses
